

Training Topics

Rhode Island Student Assistance Services takes a leading role in educating school administrators, faculty and other staff on substance abuse prevention and suicide prevention. Our specially trained staff can develop a workshop or seminar to meet the unique needs of a school district and community. Workshop topics include:

- How to identify and intervene with adolescent substance abusers in the school setting.
- How to identify and intervene with children of alcohol and other drug abusers in the school setting.
- The role of the classroom teacher in preventing substance abuse in school.
- The role of the principal in preventing substance abuse in school.
- Youth Suicide Prevention – recognizing the warning signs and how to help.

Workshops are offered free of charge to schools with a RISAS Student Assistance Counselor.
